Sewer Troubles Ballot Tomorrow

Lynwood homeowners tomorrow are to take a stand vote on whether they will agree to Arlington Heights or not.

There are three possible solutions, according to Nelson.

One would be for Lynwood residents to annex to Arlington Heights. That is expected to cost residents about $4,000 per house to equalize local improvements projects.

There are days the smell from the tanks is bad. But it has not yet been decided what to do.

The sanitary sewer would cost about $685 for every lot, and the homeowners would put the money in escrow with the village.

The cost estimate, Nelson said, was given by Village Engineer Charles Tower. The village, however, has refused to guarantee the cost of the sewer or the other improvements, according to Nelson.

The homeowners are sceptical about annexing to the village because Arlington Heights could demand that all improvement projects be carried out at once.

"They would not give us a written guarantee it would not be so," Nelson said.

Educators, Top Village Officials Honor Clabaugh

BY MAXINE TYMA

It was an evening of "thank you and good-byes" Sunday as more than 450 persons gathered at the Itasca Country Club to honor retiring Super.

The planning was done by Mrs. Lily Topol of Barrington and had scenes of North School, one of the two schools existing when Clabaugh came to Arlington Heights, and the new Rand Junior High School, now under construction.

The superintendent also was a scale model of Rand Junior High School. His daughter Judy, Mrs. Gregg Dornan, was present with her husband from Pennsylvania.

It is seldom that a teacher finds an appropriate time to express a great respect for himself and his work. Several speakers presented Super Clabaugh with an award and a message inscribed on a plaque.

ROBERT BUKOWSKI, president of the board of education presented the Clabaugh with a plaque.

William C. Shapiro, superintendent of the district, presented the Clabaugh with a plaque.

Clabaugh was a member of the Arlington Heights Teachers Association and the Illinois State Teachers Association.

Clabaugh was a member of the Arlington Heights Teachers Association and the Illinois State Teachers Association.

Five years ago, the Lynwood subdivision residents petitioned the village board with a proposal to put in new sewer.

"Let me tell you what we heard from them: they (the sanitary district) said they have a line going down on Wild Rd. and they could bring it to us," Nelson said.

"That would cost us about $700 per lot," Nelson said.

To determine how many sewer tanks in the subdivision are malfunctioning, the residents attending the meeting will fill out a questionnaire without placing their names on it.

The $400,000 handling is for 3-year-olds and up. On Saturday, the $30,000 Olympia Cap, also in its eighth running, will be the feature race.

The Memorial Day racing program at Arlington Park will include nine events for thoroughbreds, including the Round Table Stakes.

The traditional winner's cup will be presented by a Marine recently returned from Vietnam.

The horse fair on Friday will be the first event of its kind at Arlington Park. The fair will feature polo ponies, quarter horses, fox hounds and jumpers. These exhibitors will take place on the grass and infill in front of the grandstand. The fair will be presented before the first race at 2 p.m.

Shapiro Joins Racetrack Services

BY CHRISTINE CRAB

Gov. Samuel Shapiro will join in weekend activities at Arlington Park.

The governor will attend a Memorial Day service Thursday, a horse fair Friday, and a special guest day, headed by TV personality Jim Caviezel, on Saturday.

Vietnam War veterans will be guests of Arlington Park during the three-day observance of Memorial weekend. Each veteran and his guest will be presented reserve seats and other portions Thursday through Saturday.

On the race track, highlights of the new racing season at Arlington are also planned. On Memorial Day the richest race of the year will be the annual running of the Round Table Handicap.

The $400,000 handling is for 3-year-olds and up. On Saturday, the $30,000 Olympia Cap, also in its eighth running, will be the feature race.

An Arlington Heights woman told police Sunday that she was attacked and robbed Saturday night in the parking lot of her apartment building.

She told police a man attempted to force her into a car and she fled.

She described the man as being about 30 years old, 5 feet 10 inches tall, and weighing about 150 pounds.

She said she was alone at the time and did not see the man's face.

Woman Beaten, Robbed Near Home

Would publicizing the names of juveniles who get into trouble help cut rising crime rates?

Forrest H. Anderson, attorney general of Montana, believes it does.

In 1961 Montana passed an "open-court" law in juvenile cases involving felonies. Judge Lester H. Libby of Helena, Mont., said that since then, his district has a 60 per cent decrease, which is continuing. In juvenile felony cases.

Helena's daily newspaper, the Independent Record, covered the trial. It published the names, ages, parents' names, addresses, and testimony.

Another case reported in the district court was the case of a 16-year-old who caused $100 damage to a school. Judge Libby said the case was reported in detail.

A juvenile offender in Montana also is tried in open court and details of their driving mistakes are reported.

REDACTED A 75 per cent drop in highway traffic came in an 18-month period, according to Judge Libby's statistics.

Montana law enforcement officials agree.

"A YOUTH is not only enough to torment, wreck a church or a school, hold up a service station, smash a woman's purse, or beat up an old man, he is the only and tough enough to have a public trial with his parents in the town and full newspaper coverage," writes Libby.

The April, 1964 issue of Reader's Digest, which described the first court case heard under the open-court law, mentioned two brothers, 15 and 13 years old, who had stolen $1,500 worth of electronic equipment.

Montana law enforcement officials agree.

"There is no law requiring us to follow it," Shapiro said.

"The day policy is not to report the names of juveniles of under 18 years old is a serious one, or there is an overriding reason why the name is important."

"There is a law of our judgment."

Sidewalk Days Set For July

The Chamber of Commerce has designated July 26, 26 and 27 as "sidewalk days" in Arlington Heights.

The event is an annual celebration Arlington Heights merchants display their wares in front of their stores. A carnival is featured in conjunction with the occasion.

The Carnival Task Force committee, under Jim Svoboda, has decided to negotiate with last year's carnival operator and preliminary plans have been prepared subject to approval by the village and the Chamber's board of directors.

The children's ride, which was a popular feature last year, will be located there. The rearrangement of the locations will relieve some congestion and solve problems for individual merchants, but still will have the "sidewalk days" activities in the central business district.

Scouts Show Off

Scouts sponsored by the Boy Scouts of America will show off their skills at the Northwest Suburban Council to mark the 10th anniversary of the organization.

Gripe Of The Day

Parents who tell children to be good or to do as they are told put them in jail, R.J.D.

Tools Taken

A total of 54,380 worth of construction tools and equipment was reported stolen from the construction office of the Ben Franklin Co. at 1401 E. Central.

School Secretary Must Deal With Varied List of Chores

BY JAN BONE

"My teacher needs a whole bunch of detention slips," "I left my pence in the lunchroom. Did someone turn it in?" "I don't feel good and the nurse isn't here." "Can I have a conference with my child's teacher?"

TO THE 873 students at Carl Sandburg School in Rolling Meadows, Mrs. Gladys Jimenez, school secretary, is a combination of woman-of-the-week, newspaper, supplier of forms, keeper of lost glasses and pence, and first contact when they're sent to the office.

What kinds of things does a school secretary do? Like other secretaries of 87 public schools nearby, Mrs. Jimenez finds end-of-the-year activities keep her busy.

Right now, she's working on the junior high graduation program. There are 323 names to be alphabetized—carefully—and checked against school records for correct spellings.

"This is something I can't afford to make mistakes about," she says.

Minneapolis's graduation program is a tricky job, she finds. She tries to plan when she'll be unavailable, or when one of her student helpers is on hand to take phone calls and handle visitors to the office.

Students Nancy Lampson, Carol Landro, Robin Hully, Linda Jacobson, and Kim Corbett work with Mrs. Jimenez to help with school routines.

The girls help pass out mail to the building's 43 teachers after Mrs. Jimenez has done the sorting. They separate teacher's reports of attendance. They can take anyone calls or messages when Mrs. Jimenez is eating lunch.

Some of her duties, though, cannot be shared with students. For instance, one of the biggest jobs she'll have (with a June 14 deadline) is making up next year's class lists.

Students entering Carl Sandburg's seventh and eighth grade classes from the Rolling Meadows feeder schools will be assigned to one of the 43 teachers.

Next year, Mrs. Jimenez will be working with a principal when Spence takes a new position in another school district. His replacement has not been announced yet.

Mrs. Jimenez is mother of Lawrence, 17, a junior at Forest View High School; Robert, 12, a seventh-grader at Sandburg; Cheryl, 10, and Jennifer, 7, who attend Kimball Hill School.

Where to Get Tickets For Alpert Concert

Here's where and how to buy tickets for the Herb Alpert concert, which will be held at Arlington Park race track on June 19 at 8:30 p.m.

Tickets can be purchased at several places in the area.

Crowfoot's store in Rolling Meadows is handling the sale of tickets — which are priced from $7.50 to $15.00 — but you pay 10 cent handling charge for the service.

Montgomery Ward in Randhurst Shopping Center is also handling the sale, but it says all of the Montgomery Ward stores in the Chicagoland area.

You also can purchase tickets by writing to Triangle Productions, 154 Superior, Chicago, which is handling the Alpert concert.

If you're not sure about the ticket sale, but you get your tickets there, go before 10:15 a.m.; otherwise, you will be at the ticket administration for the service.

The tickets at the track can be purchased at the clubhouse or grandstand reservation booth.

Harper Board Vetoes Surplus Fund Spread

A proposal to distribute surplus funds remaining after the Harper College summer session to summer teachers was rejected by the Harper Board of Education Thursday.

The proposal was first made by the board salary committee in a letter to the board last week. The salary committee had asked the board to approve the idea of distributing a surplus of funds to the teachers.

It was referred to board attorney Francis J. Smith, who told board members that the proposal is not illegal, but it would not achieve its adoption.

The concept of a surplus or profit is totally unknown to the board salary committee. The idea of distributing a surplus is unknown to the board, as far as it knows, wrote Smith.

College president Robert E. Lahti, supported Smith's opinion. He said the board members felt inclined to do so, but he would not advise the board to do so.

Board members finally agreed to maintain the salary schedule approved in March.

Miner Bowl Finals Decide Social Science Champions

BY RICHARD CRABE

The Miner Bowl, a school handicrafts tournament which involved 16 teams that lasted two months in the finals, the team won 220 to 100. Left to right are Ted Heifetz, Alvin Fritz, Jane Glendon and Vito Castellano.

Each social science teacher instructs two sections. Since there are 10 sections, there are five teachers. Strongly, both of the sections taught by William O. Haines of Arlington Heights. There are 10 sections of social science in the junior high school. Soon after March 1, "knowledge" regulars and alternates are chosen in each of the sections.

A run-off tournament of the same type used in the school basketball playoffs began in March and continued through April and May.

The purpose of the Miner Bowl quiz program is to expand the knowledge of history among the hundreds of eighth graders providing the teams for the games.

Members of the championship team are Captain Ted Heifetz, Alvin Fritz, Jane Glendon, Vito Castellano, and Edward Spaccan.

Members of the runner-up team are Captain Scott Apoll and May.

In all, 40 students took part directly in the closed-circuit TV quiz. The competition was shown in Miner School's TV production studio and "taped" into each of the 10 sections. Teams are provided in the studio for a studio audience of about 25 parents and other visitors.

All of the questions used throughout the tournament run-off are from courses and readings assigned to the students within the previous year.

No question is used more than once. The format provides that each team answer seven questions. Questions answered correctly give the team 10 points. Questions answered incorrectly take five points from the team's total. A team has a right to pass without penalty, but questions must be answered by one team or passed over to the opposing team with the opportunity to earn additional points.

The 40 students who took part in the Miner Bowl quiz were off to the Miner Bowl quiz on Friday after the lunch.

American Fare To Kick Off The Season

Kick off the cookout season with a grand display of good American fare—Skyrumpers, a tower of burgers interspersed with slices of tomato, onion and cheese, a bonfire of cold slaw, a tray of relishes and a fresh fruit cup of pineapple and strawberries.

The Skyrumpers have a new pungent taste obtained by mixing the ground beef with an emulsion of mushroom gravy mix, dairy cream and water. Shape the meat into patties of three graduated size, and grill to desired degree of doneness. Stack them in and skewer with a city American flag.

The Cole Slaw too has been given a tangy new twist. The dressing is a mixture of cottage cheese, prepared yellow mustard and seasonings salt.

- 1-1/2 pounds ground beef
- 1 package (1/2 oz.) French's mushroom gravy mix
- 2 tablespoons water
- 4 slices onion
- 4 slices cheese
- 2 hamburger rolls or 4 bread slices
- 4 cherry tomatoes, if desired

Thoroughly mix ground beef, contents of gravy mix, onion, cream and water. Shape half of beef mixture into four patties. With remaining meat, shape four medium-size patties and four smaller patties for the 12 patties to desired doneness.

To make Skyrumpers arrange in the following order on the roll halves or bread slices: tomato slices, larger patties, onion slices, medium-size patties, cheese slices small patties, top with cherry tomatoes. 4 servings.

COLE SLAW

- 1/2 cup mayonnaise
- 1 tablespoon prepared mustard
- 1 cup cottage cheese
- 1 teaspoon seasoning salt
- 1/2 cup finely shredded cabbage

In a large bowl, combine all ingredients except cabbage and cottage cheese. Add cabbage and cottage cheese; toss until mixed thoroughly. Chill 4 servings.

Salt the cookout season with festive Skyrumpers, a stack of burgers interspersed with slices of tomato, onion and cheese.

'The Medium' Is the Massage'

BY GERRY WALSH

A study group of the American Association of University Women, met at my home recently in an attempt to decipher the ambiguities of Marshall McLuhan, our electronic-age prophet. Our text for that evening was his most "Understanding Media." In our discussion it soon became apparent that none of us really understood this brilliant man. We all felt better when we read Marshall's own words: "I don't know what I'm saying, but I'm saying it."

He was a real challenge to our limited human brains! The consensus was that here in a man who was modern, evolutionary genius, comparable to Darwin, Freud or Einstein.

MARSHALL MC LUHAN is a 54-year-old Canadian academic who has much to say to the world today—that includes the woman, we decided. So with the help of his paper-bowl book, "The Medium Is the Message," we came up with a few insights. Yes, Message "don't mess"—that means that it is the method of communication that is important.

Electronic technology has changed our way of life just by being here. We are in a new stage of development because of it.

A good comparison that he gives is to remember the industrial revolution: the machine itself changed our culture. It didn't matter whether that machine made auto parts or lamp shades. Now, the electronic age is changing our job outlook, our government, and our relationship to others.

Definitely, your home and children are changing because of our electronic age.

WE ARE NOW re-emerging the tribal world, a global world created by instantaneous electronic communication. McLuhan made a good TV appearance (N.C. Sunday, March 9) on which he called our times a brand new world of "all at once."

One of his ideas that we mothers were intrigued by was, the younger generation can't understand each other because the kids (dividing line about 14 years) are audio-visual. There are the children who were affected by T.V., before they could read or write.

McLuhan says that some of the older audio-visual people are the Beatles, Twiggy, and the Hippies. The hearing-impaired people want to be involved. T.V. involves us all in war, riots, politics, etc. We share too much about each other to remain unconscious.

HE ALSO SAYS: "The ideal image that the suburbs form of itself relates not to our time, but to preceding times. Suburbia lives in "Romania Land." It is emotionally more secure." He goes on to state: "your child is situated to 'adult' new—he is growing up."

What you say is true, Mr. McLuhan, no wonder we are confused—your reason for the generation gap are ones that we never dreamed of. I know that this study group and others that have grappled with McLuhan have gained in understanding through his original insights. We now see an old and new world, and so many of us are caught in the middle!

We think women were out of "Romania Land," at least we want to understand what is happening. Genuine like Marshall McLuhan are helpful, if not in paper-clip.

Man Asks Aid in Finding Dog Which Bit Daughter

A Mount Prospect man has appealed for help in his search for the dog that bit his son.

Norman Olsen, 1720 Verde Dr., said his son was bitten by a stray dog described as a "collie type," black in color with a white chest and forelegs, in the 1300 block of S. Highland, Arlington Heights.

Olsen said he has contacted the police, but that no one has been able to find the animal. If the dog is not found, to verify that it does not have rabies, Olsen's son will have to undergo a series of shots.

"The neighbors have said that they have seen a dog wearing the description in the area. Olsen said, "but most of them thought the dog they saw was a stray."

Olsen said his son could not recall whether the dog was wearing a tag.

Anyone seeing a dog of this description has been asked to call Arlington Heights police.

Describe Underpass Alternatives Tonight

By Charles Mountaine

Alternatives for a multi-million dollar underpass in Chicago and North Western Ry. tracks downtown in Arlington Heights will be presented tonight at 8 to the village trustees by Delaney Cather and Co. consulting engineers.

The engineers also will discuss the traffic pattern in the downtown business area.

Merriott Rupp, the company's chief for municipal planning, said yesterday that financial considerations probably will swing the final decision on the location, but the size of the underpass.

He said the plans that will be explained to the trustees will range from "several million dollars to $20 million," he said.

DELANEY-CATHER in a previous report to the trustees had indicated that the underpass at Arlington Heights and the Northwest they would need to be more than one level.

The village had been planning to build the underpass between the cross-streets of the railroad tracks and the one on Arlington Heights Rd.

The signal crossing is in the village's five-year capital improvement plan, but the plan can be altered if a different location is picked.

Some downtown merchants have opposed the Arlington Heights Rd. underpass because they are afraid it would mean the area west of the cross-streets would be accessible to commuters than it is now.

Rupp said yesterday that an alternative version of the plan to depress Arlington Heights Rd. would be to build a "virtually cut off" the downtown area from the rest of the city.

The engineer did not spell out the alternatives, and refused to say at this time what solution would be more desirable from an engineering viewpoint.

He cannot isolate one specific alternative now," he said.

"We will present them to the village trustees and push will be determined through the political decisions."

PARKING, traffic circulation through the downtown district and land use, there are the other aspects of the study the consulting engineers are preparing.

Rupp said that the alternatives in that case included several possibilities concerning parking space with one or two-way streets.

In January, he presented trustees with a plan that would limit the business district streets to one-way traffic.

SOME 600 cars entered the annual 25-mile canoe race from Libertyville to Des Plaines Sunday. The pouring rain failed to dampen the enthusiastic spirits as they paddled their way down the steady riverflow. Seven rowers examine their watches after their craft captures a hard-fought "parade" to the parking lot in Des Plaines, half a mile away and part of the crowd at Des Plaines 3rd and 4th Ave. estimated at over ten 1,000 persons. Ogilvie to Head GOP Candidates Parade Saturday

Richard B. Ogilvie, running for the Republican gubernatorial nomination, will head the GOP candidates parade sponsored Saturday by the Whirling Township Republican.

The parade will include all major shopping centers in the area.

Richard Cowen of Arlington Heights, who is in charge of the event, announced Monday that six leading GOP candidates will take part in the parade that is to last from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. in order to make it possible for a maximum number of persons to meet each of the candidates. Cowen will break the parade up into two sections, the Ogilvie section and the Schickman section.

The Ogilvie section of the parade will leave Wheeling at 10 and end up in Arlington Heights. Candidates traveling with Ogilvie will be Robert J. O'Rourke, GOP candidate for Cook County state's attorney, and Rep. David J. Raper (R-Mount Prospect) who seeks reelection to the Illinois General Assembly.

THE SECTION of the parade headed by Rep. Raper will leave the Ogilvie section at 10 a.m. and end up in Wheeling in the afternoon. Other candidates traveling with Schickman will be Sen. Terrell Clark, candidate for Illinois auditor of public accounts, and Brian Duff, Republican candidate for Illinois secretary of state.

Ogilvie Blasts Daley Control, Promises Reforms for Illinois

BY LARRY WELLS

Richard B. Ogilvie, Republican president of the Cook County Board of Commissioners, predicted victory in his race for governor Monday night and promised sweeping state reforms.

Leaving his attack more against Richard J. Daley, Democratic mayor of Chicago, than against other Republicans headed for the governor's post, Ogilvie promised to replace the control that Daley has exercised over Cook County and the rest of the state.

In a speech before the El Grove Regular Republican Organization at Mount Prospect Country Club, Ogilvie outlined reforms he has staked for the state if elected.

AT THE TOP of Ogilvie's list of reforms is the restoration of confidence by the people in government. "We need a change in attitude so that the law of Illinois can be enforced," he said, referring to civil disorders.

Threatening to impose order on administrators who do not deal with student crimes on campus as if they were ordinary crimes, he charged that the demonstrations on college campuses throughout the country could result in a "situation such as exists in South America or in going on to France today."

Ogilvie called for "substantial increases" in the state police force, labeling it "the first reserve for local law enforcement." The state police, he said, should be charged with providing the public with front-line law enforcement, not the National Guard. He argued that the police are more qualified to handle disorders and can be called to a given location in a shorter time.

Taking another shot at Daley's earlier statement that lawlessness should be shut, Ogilvie said, "You don't shoot 12-year-olds." The police, he said, have a primary responsibility to maintain the peace, and that does not necessarily mean shooting looters. "There is no question of police responsibility and there is no question the governor will back them up," he said.

Maintaining the peace in the state is not the only issue in this campaign, Ogilvie said. "I'm not running for sheriff of Illinois." Another reform he proposed is providing more home rule to counties and municipalities in the state. He claimed the Illinois Assembly is handling county matters which are the responsibility of local government agencies.

OGILVIE APPEARED calm and confident as the Monday morning meeting of members of the largest Republican organization in Cook County, the first in the county to endorse him for governor.

Willis Elze, 602 B. Evergreen, who introduced Ogilvie, said that the candidate had received the support of 80 percent of the Republican members of the Illinois House and two-thirds of the Senate membership. Endorsements for Ogilvie outside of Cook County are being sought by county organizations now looking him. He said that this is a majority of the counties outside of Cook.

Ogilvie has been president of the county board since 1966. In 1962 he was elected sheriff of Cook County, the only victorious Republican in the county election that year.

Forty-five years old, he is a graduate of Yale University and Chicago Kent College of Law. He and his wife live in Northfield and have one daughter.

Ogilvie appealed to the Republican organization to pull together to insure a victory both on June 11 in the primary, and in the November general election.

"As this state race goes, for governor, so go all the other state offices," Ogilvie said.

Talented Teens To Compete in Contest Finals

Winners of the district "Painted Teen Search" at Cook County are the six winners of the annual Mount Prospect will compete in the Chicago Grand Finals July 4, 5, and 6 in the Presidential Auditorium in Chicago.

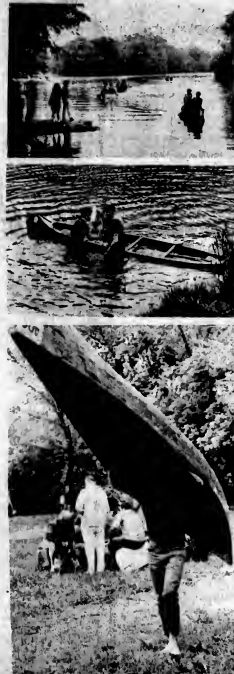

Three heads from the suburban area tied for first place. They are "Former Teenista" from Evanston, "Teenista" from Des Plaines, the "Great Subject" from Des Plaines High School and "Teenista" from Evanston High School.

Man Calls Creamery Building 'Eyesore'

The Old Creamery Building at Ridge and W. Eastman, almost in the heart of Arlington Heights, is an eyesore, a homeowner complained yesterday.

James Himmick of 589 W. Eastman Ave. wrote to the "Gripe of the Day." "The building should be razed," he said.

Himmick, who characterized the building as "deplorable" and in "dangerous condition," said that school children pass it often and that the roof was knocked off a couple of years ago in a storm.

Building Commissioner Harold Reed said the building does not violate the zoning ordinance of the village, so he cannot condemn it.

Developer's Building Plan Complicates Annex Debate

BY H. C. RADTKE

A Texas developer added fuel to a current annexation debate when, he approached the Rolling Meadows council Monday with a proposal to build luxury apartments on 26 acres of the Inverness-Parker property.

Officials of the Village of Arlington Heights objected to the annexation of the Inverness-Parker property by Rolling Meadows on the ground that the proposed high-density apartments would result in school, housing and traffic problems for both communities.

The Rolling Meadows council is considering annexing the 11½-acre Inverness-Parker property, located between Cliff and Algonquin Rds. and bordered on the west by Salt Creek and final action is expected June 11.

Owners of the Inverness-Parker property had asked the council to zone 98 acres for multi-family dwelling and 20 acres for commercial.

Meyer Roland Meyer called a meeting of the council last night after I. C. Deal, owner of I. C. Deal Investments, signed a contract with owners of the Inverness parcel to build the proposed high-density apartments, would result in school, housing and traffic problems for both communities.

DEAL TOLD the council he will construct luxury brick apartments costing from $180 for one bedroom to $230 for three bedrooms. He said the total apartment complex will be built using a variety of British, Mexican, and southern California styles. Unique aspects of the development include high-style interior decorating, bid parking lots, landscaped courtyards, and enclosed balconies.

Council members objected to the proposed density of the development containing 20 to 26 units an acre.

"Anything less than a one-acre ordinance allowing 20 units an acre seems to be the policy we have just enacted," said Deal.

Roberta Gorder Weds James Hale

In a double-ring ceremony before an altar bedecked with ferns and adorned with candles and two stylized low vases of calla lilies and rhododendrons, Roberta Anne Gorder, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fredrick Gorder, Arlington Heights, was given in marriage by her father to James Leo Hale, son of Mr. and Mrs. Dean Gilbert Hale, Mason City, Iowa.

The wedding took place at 4:30 p.m., Saturday, March 23 in St. Mark Lutheran Church, Mount Prospect. Pastor Nolan A. Watson officiated.

The bridal party walked between rows of bridesmaids and caissons of green held by satin ribbon boues. The last row was flanked with cascades of calla lilies and rhododendrons, and large white lilies. Vocal solos were "O Lord, Be Glorified" and "The Lord's Prayer."

THE BRIDE wore a floor-length Empire gown of ivory tulle with a full skirt. The bodice was fashioned of re-embroidered Alençon lace beaded with crystals, seed and baroque pearls. The deep neckline of her A-line skirt was of beaded lace.

The same lace trimmed a removable collar. The bride's short blonde veil was held by a cap of Alençon lace beaded with pearls and crystals and a peak of deep lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of orange and pink flowers, and a small bouquet of white lilies. The bridesmaids wore white dresses with white lilies and a small bouquet of white lilies.

Maid of honor was Margie Horvath of Dayton, Pa. The bridesmaids were Mary Ann, Mich. and college roommates of the bride. She wore a floor-length Nile green chiffon gown with V-neck lace trim at the bodice. The Empress gown had short sleeves.

Her hair was in a fashion of miniature ring and two rows of short styling. She carried a yellow plumage bouquet with tapering by accent.

BRIDESMAIDS were Carolyn Hill, sister of the bride, and Mary Catherine, Arlington Heights. Junior bridesmaid was Joanne Kania, Wheeling. Their groomsmen were Nile green chiffon similar to the maid of honor and they carried cascades of white lilies and tulips. The groomsmen wore white suits with white lilies and a small bouquet of white lilies.

Flower girl was Melissa Emmer, 2½ year old niece of the groom, from Des Moines, Iowa. Her dress was a miniature version of the bridesmaid's gown. She carried a nosegay of yellow daisies and multicolored spring flowers. The mother of the bride wore an emerald green silk and linen ensemble and a corsage of two green and yellow sycamores and a light gray suit with a white ruffled blouse.

ATTENDING AS best man was Fred Whorsey of Mason City, Iowa. Ushers were David Emmer, groom's brother-in-law, of Des Moines, Iowa; Tom Peterson, friend of the groom, of Mason City, Iowa; and Dennis Scullion, the bride's cousin, of Beaver Falls, Pa.

A dinner reception was held at the Chevy Chase Country Club. Dinner music was furnished by the Lake Forest String Quartet.

The young couple met while attending Northwood College. The bride studied at Northwood College and the groom at Northwood College. They are now employed by an automotive dealership in Mason City where the couple is making their home.

Antique Antics

BY MARY BRUCE

Have you been enticed along the antique mall yet? If not, you don't know what you are missing. If you're tired of the bustle of the city, the bustle of the antique mall is just what you need. It's a place where you can find all sorts of things, from old furniture to old tools, and you're bound to make new and interesting finds to add to the excitement.

Just about everyone has a little something tucked away in cupboards or shelves, cups and saucers, or a ring or brooch left by grand Aunt Hannah. You may even find as part of your heritage. So the antique mall, it's just as easy as that.

THE FIELD is wide open. Just find something that appeals to you, you've got a mate or something that is the same category and price the search is on. Actually, the search for additional pieces is more fun than the finding of the item.

Friends will get you out of bed in the early a.m. to go to a special sale or event. You'd be surprised at how fast you can get your feet under you and be on your way.

Today, the term antique means a large range of things and years and is stretched pretty far by well meaning individuals. The new law that went in effect over a year ago making any item 100 years old from each succeeding year has helped establish a better understanding of what is classified as antique.

Antique is not an arbitrary name, it is a word. It is a word that is used to describe a thing that is old, and it is a word that is used to describe a thing that is old. It is a word that is used to describe a thing that is old, and it is a word that is used to describe a thing that is old.

WHAT KIND of people have joined the crowd? The young, the old, the wealthy, the not so wealthy, and near will be, group. Why the thrill of the hunt with today's mass production of most of our furniture and accessories, we are looking for a little individuality in our homes.

The new article on antiques will appear next month on the Day at Home section.

Arlington High Swim Pool Two Steps Nearer Reality

BY MAXINE TYMA

The governing board of two existing bodies took first step last night for the construction of an indoor swimming pool at Arlington High School.

The Board of Education of High School District 214 approved the sale of school property to the Arlington Heights Park District for a $1 token fee.

The Board of Commissioners of the Arlington Heights Park District accepted the final recommendations of the Citizens Park Advisory Council, which included the construction of a swimming pool at the high school site.

The park district is planning a proposed $2.7 million referendum this summer for the improvement and development of park facilities.

According to the Illinois Park District Code, park buildings for public use can be constructed only on land which the district owns.

Northwestern Honors Four

Four new students at Northwestern University, Evanston, were recognized for achievement and leadership at May Week Honors Day ceremonies May 19.

They are Claudia Ely, 102 Kenicott Ave., Arlington Heights; Bruce Hubbard, 5311 W. Park St., Arlington Heights; Michael Pace, 1108 Eden Ave., Mount Prospect; and Patricia Press, 601 Haden Ave., Mount Prospect.

Rape Charge Dropped in Circuit Court

Charges against a 25-year-old Arlington Heights man for rape were dropped Friday in Circuit Court by Judge Francis C. Glowski.

Judge Glowski dismissed the case against Ron Mahon of 510 Park St. and said there was "no probable cause" for the charge.

Mahon, a former laboratory technician at Northwestern Community Hospital, surrendered to Arlington Heights Police March 27 after the father of a 17-year-old female girl agreed a complaint against him.

The girl told police the alleged rape occurred March 15 in an s-ray room of the hospital.

"We have a tentative agreement with the school district to pay one-half of the bond retirement costs and one-half of the operational costs," said Thomas J. Thornton, superintendent of parks.

"We HAVE to work out several things regarding the use of the pool for school and park use. We have to be sure the pool is available to public use," he said.

"We have a plan to use the same man to run the park district as the school use. We can probably hire the first swimming coach in the country and guarantee him a year-around job," said Thornton.

"We have a duty to approve this tonight," said Mrs. Leah Cummings, board of education member.

The park district has to have our agreement to let the land so they can make plans for their referendum in July," she said.

The park commission accepted without reservation the majority of the recommendations of the Advisory Council and its sub-committee.

The commissioners will meet with the council and additional questions. No date for the meeting has been set.

More than 10 residents have been invited to serve on a referendum committee. A meeting will be held June 4 at 8 p.m. in the Pioneer Park clubhouse, Charles E. Cronin, president of the park board, said the meeting is open to all interested citizens who want to work for the passage of a referendum.

He said the board will follow the recommendations of the council in selecting locations for the construction of six new parks and the improvement of five existing parks.

CRONIN SAID a final figure on the cost of the referendum will depend on new construction estimates by the architect.

The commissioners had only a few questions or objections to any of the council recommendations.

One recommendation from the subcommittee on administration and programs was the mailing of a monthly newsletter to the residents of the district, informing them of park activities.

Thornton said each mailing would cost more than $700 and said it was "not financially feasible at this time."

"We have to reject it for the moment because we can't determine just what we want to do," he said.

Commissioners also said they want to seek answers to all the 125 questions gathered by members of the subcommittee on recreation requirements and facilities.

They said the suggestions and the areas from which the suggestions came would be helpful in future planning.

A Short Lesson In Art Appreciation

Selecting a painting can be a most rewarding experience. You need no artistic background, advice or perspective. When you want to see what you like, don't try to find a similar painting to one you use in your gallery or a theme home. Instead, let your eye be the guide. There is only one of a kind. Here at Hickory Hall are the works of 100's of European and American professionals. A still life, a street scene, character study...one of these will be the most ideal addition to the interior of your home and will contain that atmosphere that only family can.

The opportunity to own an original painting is here at Hickory Hall Galleries. We offer the works of such well known professionals as Van Gogh, Renoir, Degas, Manet, Picasso, Matisse, and many others. Prices are extremely reasonable. Starting as low as $10. For the price of a report you can own an original oil. The painting will be delivered to your home and will be insured for the full value of the work.

30 days full refund or exchange.

Hickory Hall

is also the studio of Gwen Marino, nationally known artist specializing in oil and watercolor painting. Hickory Hall Galleries is located at 116 N. LaSalle St. 'il 9 daily except Tuesday, Sunday 12 'il 9 and on Route 54 North at Prairie View Road, one mile west of Half Day. Telephone: 634-1361

Alderman Named over Rejection

Rolling Meadows Mayor Roland Meyer temporarily appointed a 27-year-old food association manager Tuesday to fill an alderman's vacancy in the city's fourth ward.

The appointment of Daniel E. Weber was made after the council refused by a 3 to 3 vote to approve the mayor's appointment of Weber. One alderman was absent during the voting.

An emergency law allowed Mayor Meyer to appoint Weber temporarily until a successor is elected.

Weber replaces Edward Earls, who resigned this spring because he moved to Wheeling ward. Weber lives with his wife, Charlene, and their three children at 4101 Wren Ln.

ASK ANN LANDERS

Wife Of A Little Roy

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Last week, I slipped in the shower and broke my shoulder. It was 11 p.m., and my husband Roy, who was just home from work, saw me. When I sobbed he said, "Gee, that's a shame. Take a taxi to the hospital. I am not about to leave you alone in the house and make the hospital bill." He suggested I call my mother if I wanted "company."

Last summer, when my brother cut his hand on a beer bottle, Roy helped. I had to bind up my brother's hand and drive him to the doctor's office. When our children came down with polio they (they weren't very sick but they looked a mess). Roy suddenly remembered a fishing date and left town. He didn't take me to the hospital when the children were born. With our first boy, he had what the doctor called sympathetic labor pains and was in worse shape than I was. When the second boy was born, he was out of town—40 miles away—with car trouble.

There must be a reason for this. What is it?

On Sunday, start your week right with Ann Landers - her advice helps solve intriguing problems like these DEAR WIFE: Your answer appears in your signature. Roy is too immature to lose unemployment or discontent, so he takes a duck whenever he sees something coming, in addition to being immature. Roy is also inconsiderate, and that's a mighty unattractive combination. Lots of luck.

Underwear And Ulcers

DEAR ANN LANDERS: This will probably seem like a silly problem to you, but it is giving me ulcers. I've been married only 18 months, and it seems like 18 years. Why? Because ever since we came home from our honeymoon Frank has been sitting around every night watching TV in his underwear. When the doorman drops, he runs and hides and yells, "You got it."

I realize he's tired from going to school all day, but I'm tired from working in an office. And when I come home, there is dinner to get, laundry, housework—the whole bit. Yet I have the strength to change from dry clothes to a housecoat or a neat little smock.

Frank insists a man's house is his castle, and he wants to be comfortable. Since we get to see each other only a few hours a day, don't you think he should pay some attention to how he looks in my eyes? Thanks for your help.

FANNIE FROM MCKINSTOWN

DEAR FANNIE: Slacks and sport suits are comfortable. And so is a robe. Maybe if you buy him a new turquoise sweater or a Japanese kimono he'll wear them. Give it a try.

Sunday and everyday, see Ann Landers, in the Bright One.

Can you imagine having a leg removed or undergoing major surgery while fully conscious? Horrible thought is it not? Yet, ether and the many other forms of anesthesia now so common were unknown a hundred years ago. Many patients died of shock, even during the simplest surgical procedures. The Same Street, Before and After SEVEN months after a building ban was lifted in south Mount Prospect, construction is proceeding at a feverish pace. Homes shown are on W. Catalpa, and are being put up by homebuilder Salvatore DiMucci. The building ban, which lasted 18 months, involved construction of a controversial sewage lift station in Elk Ridge Villa, and was part of a $7.5 million lawsuit against the village by DiMucci.

In Six Northwest Towns This Year

$100 Million for Building Expected

BY RICHARD CRABB

Six towns in northwest Cook County will do a building business of more than $100 million in 1968. The six towns are Arlington Heights, Mount Prospect, Des Plaines, Elk Grove Village, Palatine and Barrington. Five years ago these towns did an $88 million business in construction of all types.

Oliver Village, Palatine and Schaumburg.

During the five-year period, building in the northwest Chicago suburbs has shown great stability. There have been gains each year since 1963, except for 1966 when a building recession slowed the rate of construction across the entire nation. True to the 1966 recession, two of the six towns, Barrington and Arlington Heights, continued to gain.

At the beginning of the five-year period, the towns accounted for a combined investment of $38 million. In 1964, the total for the six towns dropped to $43 million, $43,000,000.

THERE ARE some of the highlights in a study of building reports for the northwest suburbs provided The Day by the Real Savings and Loan Assn. of Chicago whose detailed records on construction dates in northern Illinois and northern Indiana date back to before World War II.

From the end of 1963 through the first quarter of 1968, Arlington Heights construction of all types has been $135 million. Next is Des Plaines with $111 million. Standing third is Elk Grove Village with $76 million. In fourth is Palatine with $34 million, followed by Mount Prospect with $31 million. Barrington has put $15 million into new construction in the same period. There are indications that the next town to join these building leaders will be Schaumburg.

The type of construction in the towns has varied greatly. Arlington Heights major emphasis has been on the building of single-family homes. Approximately half of the record investment has gone into new homes during the five years. In Des Plaines, where home building boomed in the 1950s, more than 80 per cent of the construction in the last five years has gone into apartment, commercial and industrial buildings with less than 20 per cent going into new homes.

ELK GROVE Village has put 25 per cent of its new construction investment into homes and the balance into commercial and industrial buildings. The Carle Industrial Park accounts for most of the new construction in Elk Grove Village during the last five years.

Mount Prospect experienced its highest building years in 1964 and 1965 when new homes and the Eastshore Shopping Center were major factors.

In the building of new homes, Arlington Heights has constructed twice as many single-family residences in the last five years as any other town in the northwest suburbs. Arlington Heights has issued building permits for 2,378 homes in that period. Elk Grove Village is second with 1,654 with Des Plaines a close third with 1,020. Palatine is close behind Des Plaines with 900. Mount Prospect has built 860 single-family residences since 1963.

Say When

Newest interior decorating fad is inflatable furniture. Vinyl-plastic chairs, sofas and banquets are blown up like balloons with a vacuum cleaner hose or bicycle pump. Manufacturers say they're comfortable and sturdy, less expensive than conventional furniture, and can be moved with a finger-pinch touch.

Proper Place

Maintain safe and proper storage places for such type of home. The Institute for Living states that plastic air-kitchens should be kept in approved rental safety cans and should be cleaned only with paint, oils and solvents should be kept in a cool, well-ventilated place. The plastic cabinet provided for the purpose, empty flammable oil, and plastic containers should be disposed of properly.

As commerce and industry grow in the Chicago metropolitan area, the company executive who is frequently transferred from one plant to another becomes an increasingly important part of the market.

"The phenomenal growth of the transferee market is most evident in such southwestern suburbs as Arlington Heights, where industrial development around the International Airport is booming," said Steve Speicher, sales manager for the Airy Trac community in Arlington Heights, a development of Realty Company of America, Inc.

"For instance, when Airy Trac opened in the fall of 1967, about one out of every 10 buyers — 1.6 per cent — was a transferee."

"However, in the last year, this figure has jumped to two out of five — an increase of 24.4 per cent."

"During peak seasons, the ratio of transferees can get as high as seven out of 10 buyers," he said.

"We're now in a peak season when transferees want to buy and move into a home after school is out in June or before school starts in the fall," said Speicher.

The average transferee buying in Airy Trac is in his early thirties, has three children, two cars, is an executive in sales, advertising, marketing or management, has moved at least three times before coming to Chicago and can expect to move again in three to five years, according to Speicher.

Two other factors which are probably more important to the transferee than the average buyer include immediate delivery and the resale value of the home. According to Speicher, "It is used to be that you could build a home in 90 days, but today, with the shortage of labor and materials what it takes about five months," he said.

For example, since about 1967, the cost of Airy Trac buyers are transferees, custom-built and maintain about 34 per cent customer "satisfaction" in various stages of construction.

"Whereas the average buyer building his own home is impatient to get into the home and materials that go into the home, the transferee realizes that it will be to move into a new home in 10 days, he will not come with any home."

"However, if his company gives him 90 days to move, he can buy a home within 90 days of completion and have more of a choice," said Speicher.

"Because the transferee moves so frequently, he wants a home that is popular, easy to sell and one that has a good resale value. During the last six months, a few transferees have bought homes for between $48,000 and $51,000, several thousand dollars more than the price they paid, according to Speicher."

This appreciation can be attributed to rising construction costs, rising interest rates, the demand for housing in general and the demand created by the transferee himself.

Beware of Powerful Insecticides

In case of overall spraying for insects, you may find five insecticides: chlordane, malathion, diazinon, DDT and dieldrin.

For avoiding any undue hazard, you should also never use any of the total five bug-baiters on clothing, furniture, rug or carpets.

United States Department of Agriculture experts advise the powerful insecticides should be used only to treat headboards, closets, cracks, crevices and wall trim as well as under carpet edges.

Carpenter bees, such as termites, roaches, and carpet beetles are the least likely to get any of the five sprays.

And, to keep the insecticide out away from the drying heads of curtains or drapes.

Dangerous

Don't let an electrical fire become a career event in your home. The Institute for Safe Living of the American Mutual Liability Insurance Co. points out that many fires from original from broken switches, dirty sparking outlets, wiring connections, defective appliances, and trapped or burned cords.

Computer to Help Home Seekers, Sellers

Home owners and home seekers will be brought together more efficiently and rapidly as the result of adoption by the National Association of Real Estate Boards (NAREB) of a nationwide computerized real estate listing service.

The Northwest Suburban Board of Realtors is "proud to be one of the first to participate" in the new service, according to John O. McCabe, the group's president.

"Through this system, we understand that Realtors in any area of the country will be able to have up-to-the-minute knowledge of available homes or apartments that meet any desired description within the area in which they operate."

"Buyers or renters will be able to make preliminary decisions in the Realtor's office, based upon data coming from the computer, and thus will save considerable time searching out properties that meet their needs or interest," McCabe said.

"Basically, the computer will store information on 'Data' will be instantaneously updated as homes are added or removed from the market, keeping available a current accurate file of."

"As soon as the basic service is established, additional services to be provided through the computer," Davis added.

"These include information for use in property research, records of available industrial locations, standardized accounting systems for office and apartment buildings managed by Realtors, and accounting systems both for the boards of Realtors and their individual members."

"As soon as the real estate data bank is completed," McCabe continued, "it will almost instantaneously be available for various purposes not only for the association, but for local, state and national governmental agencies, financial institutions, research organizations, and educational institutions—information which will disclose trends in the real estate market not available now."

Tells About Village Past And Present

A 16 page brochure about Hoffman Estates is to be ready for distribution by the end of the summer or early fall, according to Village President Roy L. Jenkins.

The brochure is designed for new residents moving into the community. However, the first printing will be distributed to every resident in the village. Jenkins said sample copies have been approved by the village board. The booklet includes a history of the village since its incorporation and information about community and area facilities and services as they exist today.

New Shade Cuts Heat

A transparent window shade that reportedly turns back 65 per cent of solar heat has been developed.

The manufacturer, 3 M Co., says the new shade is the next best thing to air conditioning.

The shade, which rolls up like other window shades, keeps new air-conditioned rooms cool and reduces the load on air conditioners, according to the manufacturer.

It is made of an aluminum polyester film which reduces sun glare by 92 per cent and heat loss from the sun's rays by 65 per cent.

The film is a hollow mirror looks somewhat like a mirror from the outside, although the view from the inside is like that of an ordinary glass pane.

Latex coated glass which shows build-up of the sun's heat only temporarily before permitting it to pass into the room, Shadex Solar Control Film, the name of the shade, reflects the sun's rays.

The solar shield was tested in Fresno, Calif., where summer afternoons temperatures often reach 100 degrees.

The shades were hung on 34 windows of a school. As a result, the shade maker says, the school had more comfortable rooms, reduced power costs, elimination of cooling plant breakdowns and relief from the fading effects of the sun on carpets and draperies.

Never Cut Towards You

Be sharp when you use knives and scissors and never cut towards yourself.

Keep your hands away from the cutting edge, especially when cutting materials on flat surfaces. Rough or irregularly shaped handles often work for greater safety on slippery surfaces. Run-down gloves can prevent a bad cut.
